

VLADIVOSTOK REPORTED TO BE BURNING TODAY; ENTIRE CITY IN FLAMES

The Report Comes From St. Petersburg In A Bulletin Issued Early This Morning.

(Special to The Gazette.) St. Petersburg, Nov. 15.—In a telegram just received from Vladivostok and made public in a bulletin today, it is announced that the entire city and port of Vladivostok is on fire, and that it is at the present time partially destroyed. No particulars are given as to how great will be the loss or how the conflagration started.

SOLDIERS STATIONED THERE

There is a garrison of soldiers there and the remaining vessels of the Russian navy which escaped from the battle in the sea of Japan are also reported to be in the harbor there. The report has caused considerable excitement owing to the meagre reports made public and rumors to the effect that the troops have mutinied and are burning the city are current.

CRITICAL SITUATION

The situation this morning is desperate according to later reports just received. Mobs practically control the town and the looting of the stores and warehouses continues with unabated fury. The flames are spreading rapidly and it is probable that the entire town and harbor will be destroyed. The vessels in the harbor are crowded with refugees who are afraid to remain on shore because of the mobs' violence.

FAMINE IS NOW THREATENED

Famine now threatens the entire community. In the first day's rioting fully five hundred, mostly sailors and artillerymen, were killed and wounded and their bodies lie in the streets. Many of the wounded were left where they fell. Mobs of reservists started all the trouble.

FIFTEEN THOUSAND HELPS TO HEAL A BROKEN HEART

Chicago Jury Awards Mable Beland That Sum This Morning, After All-Night Session.

(Special to The Gazette.) Chicago, Nov. 15.—Mabel Beland has won her suit against John O'Neill, the aged track elevation contractor, and the jury after an all-night session brought in a sealed verdict, which when opened this morning awarded the fair plaintiff fifteen thousand dollars to heal her wounded heart. The case has attracted considerable attention all over the country owing to the diversity of ages of the plaintiff and defendant. John O'Neill is well along in years, while the plaintiff, Mabel Beland, is a comparatively young girl. The trial lasted over two weeks and was replete in interesting testimony of the verging character. The jury in awarding Miss Beland damages accept the testimony which tended to show that O'Neill had put away his aged and crippled wife that he might enjoy the company of the young girl and later might marry her.

HYDE RELATES HIS STORY TO INVESTIGATORS COOLLY

Is Again On The Stand In The Insurance Investigation In New York Today.

(SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.) New York, Nov. 15.—James Hazen Hyde was a witness again this morning. The room was crowded with spectators. He said he had received several offers for his holdings of stock last winter, but refused them because he thought the best interests of this society was for him not to sell. Regarding the shipbuilding trust he said: "I had no interest in any of the settlements made regarding the shipbuilding matter. I had no business connection in the company in any way nor had the Equitable."

Hyde was closely questioned regarding the various stock transactions and made a good witness in his own cause. He said at the time the investments in question were made his father did not own a majority of the Equitable stock. He said William H. MacIntyre told him so. Hughes wished he had the power to bring MacIntyre before the committee, as it is understood he is in Massachusetts.

Hyde read a long statement regarding the leases which Hendricks charges the elder Hyde made for pecuniary personal benefit. Hughes interrupted him because Hyde admitted he had not prepared the statement himself. E. H. Harriman was called to the witness stand at two-thirty this afternoon. Former Governor Odell has requested Armstrong to call him as a witness. He asks the opportunity to reply to the statements made by Hyde.

LABOR FEDERATION MAKES ITS VIEWS PUBLIC TODAY

Demand Made For The Enforcement Of The Chinese Exclusion Policy At Once.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 15.—The rallying cry of the American Federation of Labor was sounded Tuesday when the question of the enforcement to the letter of the Chinese exclusion act was brought up. The federation will make a determined stand for this, as well as for the legalizing of the eight-hour day in all government work and the abolition of convict labor where its products compete with union-made goods. The attention of the injunction laws will also be demanded, according to the report of the executive council read to the convention in old city hall today.

C. P. Shea, president of the Teamsters' union, was seated as a delegate. This is looked upon by the International Association of Steam Fitters as a big card for them in their fight for a federation charter, as Shea, who has been joined by other delegates, is expected to help them in the convention.

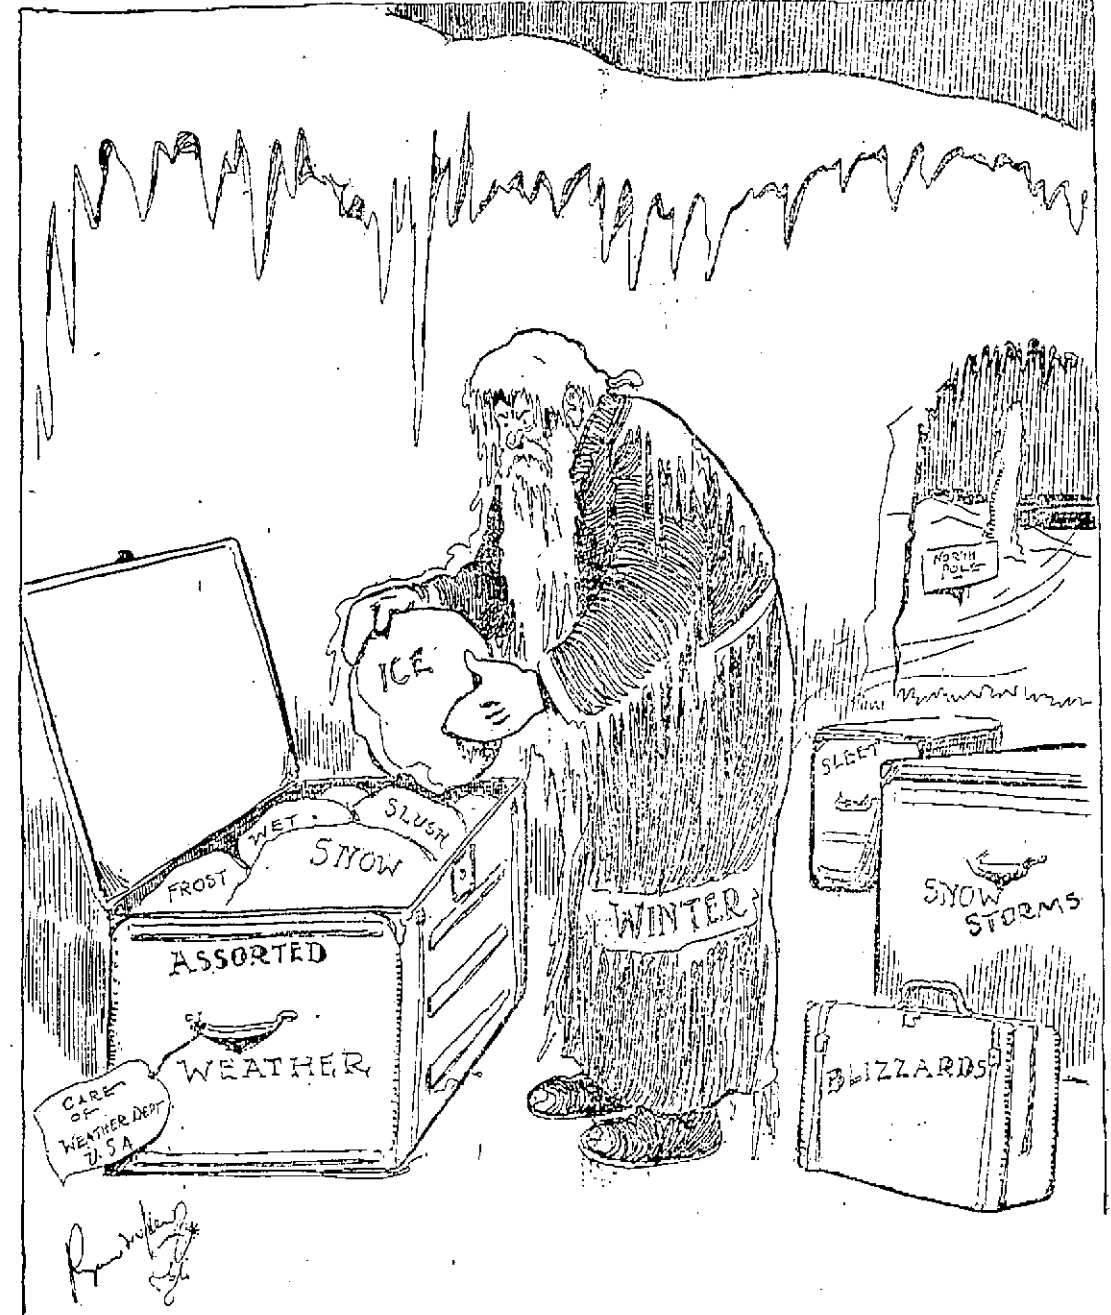

Oppose Involving Hosts.

The council voiced the sentiments of the organization as being opposed to the present immigration laws as applicable to all classes of aliens. A plea was made for more stringent enforcement of the laws for inspection of the invading hosts from Europe. Especial stress was laid upon the need for better physical examinations and an investigation was asked from the government into the many reports and rumors of assisted immigration.

The report took the national administration to task for its failure to enforce the eight-hour law in all government work, and a plea was made for every state federation organization to immediately institute a campaign for the establishment in their respective states of the eight-hour law.

A popular chord was struck when First Vice President James Duncan, who was reading the report, made a ringing appeal for equal rights in all elections for women.

An assessment of 1 cent a member a week for a period of four weeks, was levied on the entire membership of the federation for the benefit of the International Typographical union in its efforts to establish an eight-hour work day.

SENATE COMMITTEE FRAMING RATE BILL

Senator Elkins States That Body Will Not Be Long In Accomplishing This.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Washington, November 15.—The Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce of which Senator Stephen B. Elkins, of West Virginia, is chairman, met here today. The purpose of the meeting is to frame a bill providing for railroad rate supervision and regulation by the government. Senator Foraker, of Ohio, has prepared a bill to be presented to the committee for the equitable regulation of railway rates. The bill provides that the carriers can be required to make not only reasonable through, but reasonable local rates. Whether the carriers can be enjoined from reducing rates below a named minimum will be a question for the courts to determine. When a complaint is made, it shall be the duty of the court to proceed summarily, postponing all other business to enable it to do so.

Senator Elkins said today that he did not think the committee would be long framing a bill, as the individual members of the committee had formed definite opinions on what they desire and all that remains to be done is to form some one plan. He hopes that this can be done in two weeks so that the bill will be ready for congress when it convenes early in December.

Mr. Post said the Citizens' Industrial association was formed to stand between capital and labor. Judge Holden of Chicago spoke this afternoon.

ISLE OF PINES IN SECESSION

People Break With Cuban Government And Seek Annexation To The United States.

THEY ASK FOR JUSTICE AND EQUITY

Issue An Address To President Roosevelt Seeking Aid Of Uncle Sam In Their New Undertaking.

Havana, Nov. 15.—Residents of the Isle of Pines issued a declaration of their independence from Cuba Tuesday and organized a new government as a United States territory. A delegate to congress will be sent to Washington in order to have questions affecting the future of the island discussed before the House of Representatives, ignoring Cuban authority.

A mass meeting was held under the name of a territorial convention and officials were appointed to fill all positions except those that must be named by the president under the constitution of the United States.

T. B. Anderson was elected secretary of state of the new territory. James M. Steere was chosen treasurer, Edward C. Ryan delegate to congress, A. T. Friese chief justice and David B. Wall sheriff.

The convention divided the island into five districts and ordered elections to be held at once to select tax assessors, collectors and members of the legislature, which is to convene next week. One ticket was named in each district, the only political question being to keep the island under the Stars and Stripes. The election proceeded in an orderly manner under the forms of law, the men on the different tickets announcing that they will take office without regard to those serving under the Cuban government.

Notify the United States.

The first official notice of the affair is contained in this letter:

"Theodore, Roosevelt, President, Washington, Dear Sir—The people of this island having purchased homes under the treaty of Paris, believing it was United States territory, and having waited over three years for recognition of their rights as American citizens, feeling a continuation of these conditions and feeling alarm at the condition of Cuba during the coming election, have taken preliminary steps for the establishment of a territorial government under the Constitution of the United States, believing this the proper step for us to take, the most effective way to receive justice and equity from our national lawmaking body, also relying upon you, our president, for a 'quare deal. We trust our action will meet your approval."

"Yours respectfully,"

"T. B. Anderson, "Chairman Territorial Convention, "Nueva Gerona, Isle of Pines, Nov. 14."

People Are In Accord.

This action by the convention is said to represent the opinion of practically the entire population of the Isle of Pines. At the meeting there was only one voice raised against the action taken. That was by a man who expressed fear of the results, asserting that all are able to punish.

Fully one-third of those living on the island are American citizens. There has been a steady immigration from the United States, while many natives have left there since the Spanish war, coming to Cuba. About half the natives who remain live in the little town of Nueva Gerona. Their inclination is said to have the island belong to the United States. Their opposition to the Cuban administration was shown by the fact that at the primaries all inscribed themselves as liberals.

MAY INVESTIGATE ALL THE CHARGES

BOTH JENNINGS AND KNAPP DEMAND AN INVESTIGATION.

THAT BID FROM JANESVILLE

This Seems To Have Caused the Majority of the Trouble at the University.

It is probable that before the investigation of alleged graft at the University, asked for by Architect J. T. W. Jennings, lately resigned, is completed, the fact as to the time of the receipt of the bid by the Rock County Concrete Stone company will play an important part. It will be remembered that Mr. Jennings was in Janesville on Sunday making an investigation of the local concern's bid on work of the hydraulic laboratory. It now seems that armed with the affidavit of Mr. Jensen, manager of the stone company, the ex-architect has asked Governor La Follette that he cause an investigation of University affairs.

Learns the Time
Yesterday Mr. Jennings made public a letter to Governor La Follette in which he sets forth his side of the university graft controversy and asks for an investigation as to his professional conduct and other charges. The letter is the result of a request from Gov. La Follette, who yesterday told Jennings' attorney, Elmore T. Elver, that if statements and charges were reduced to writing they would be considered, but he would not act on oral statements and in ex parte manner. Mr. Jennings says he was informed in the spring of 1904 that he must abandon outside work and he immediately sought a new business connection. When plans were drawn for the new farm engineering building, costing $40,000, Mr. Jennings says he learned the building could not be put up for less than $50,000 and proposed partial plans.

Supported by Van Hise
Dean Turneure of the engineering college, assisted him, he says. Prof. Knapp said the work could be done cheaper and offered to prove it, but President Van Hise ruled that Jennings should prepare the plans. Jennings says that Knapp then took the plans which were submitted to him in confidence and showed them for bids and criticisms, till at the suggestion of Regent Vilas, he was called down for it. Shortly after Jennings said charges against him of personal and professional nature were made by unknown parties. He was informed of this by President Van Hise, Oct. 25, who said they conveyed the impression that he had conspired with a tona cotter agent, which he says the agent denies, also that the contract for the new hydraulic laboratory had been unfairly awarded, that he absented himself too much from his office and that he had secured money on notes endorsed by contractors.

Jennings' Explanation
He denies having anything to do with the contractor for the hydraulic laboratory, and that the contractors who endorsed his notes were those building his own house whose cost he said was much more than anticipated. As to personal charges he asks no investigation.

RULERS OF THE WORLD.

Meat Eating Nations Are the Leaders in Every Branch of Human Achievements.

The ruling nations of the world are meat eaters and history records that they always have been.

Vegetarians and food cranks may explain this in any way they choose, but the facts remain that the Americans, English, French, Russians and Germans are meat-eating nations, and they are also the most energetic and most progressive.

The principal food of the heroic Boer soldier, known as Biltong, is a sort of dried beef, affording a great deal of nourishment in a highly concentrated form.

The weak races of people are the rice-eating Chinese, Hindus, and Siamese, regarded since the dawn of history as non-progressive, superstitious and inferior physically and mentally to the meat-eating nations who dominate them.

The structure of the teeth plainly indicates that human beings should subsist upon a variety of food, meat, fruit and grains, and it is unhygienic to confine one's diet to any one of those classes to the exclusion of another.

Meat is the most concentrated and most easily digested of foods, but our manner of living is often so unnatural that the digestive organs refuse to properly digest meat, eggs and similar nutritious and wholesome food, but it is not because such food is unwholesome, but the real reason is that the stomach lacks, from disease or weakness, some necessary digestive element; hence arising indigestion and, later on, chronic dyspepsia.

Nervous people should eat plenty of meat, convalescents should make meat the principal food, hard-working people have to do so, and brain-workers and office men should eat, not so much meat, but at least once a day, and to insure its perfect digestion one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets should be taken after each meal, because they supply the pepsines, diastase and fruit acids, lacking in every case of stomach trouble.

Nervous dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, gastritis, sour stomach, gas and acidity are only different names for indigestion, the failure to digest wholesome food, and the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cures them all because, by affording perfect digestion, the stomach has a chance to rest and recover its natural tone and vigor.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the real household medicine; it is as safe and pleasant for the stomach ache of the baby as it is for the imperfect digestion of its grand sire.

They are not a cathartic, but a digestive, and no pill habit can ever follow their use; the only habit Stuart's Tablets induce is the habit of good digestion and consequently good health.

OSCAR L. BROWNELL IS OFF FOR PANAMA

Left for New York City Today—Will Act as a Gazette Correspondent in Canal Zone.

By December first Janesville will be represented in the government service in the Canal Zone, Panama, by two people. Miss Mary Humphrey has been there something over a year, acting as a trained nurse in the government hospital at Ancon, near Colon. Oscar L. Brownell is the other local resident who will be on the scene of the great canal diggings. He will work at his trade, that of a carpenter, building houses for the workers, etc., along the line of the canal. Mr. Brownell bid farewell to his family, relatives and friends here today and left for New York City. From there he will sail Saturday and expects to arrive at Colon on the following Saturday, November 25. Just where he will be stationed he does not know, but it is probable that his work will carry him to many parts of the Zone. Mr. Brownell will from time to time contribute to the columns of the Gazette. These letters being written by a well known Janesville man and coming from a place in which the whole world is now interested will doubtless prove a very acceptable feature in the paper, both from the news and magazine standpoints. Mr. Brownell will write of places and movements different than those dealt with by other Miss Humphrey or Mr. N. A. Warts, being in a dissimilar work than either of them and very likely visiting many parts of the Zone to which neither have thus far been.

AN EVEN CHANCE IS NOW REPORTED

WISCONSIN TEAM NOT CONFIDENT, BUT HOPEFUL.

VANDERBOOM IS INJURED

Coach King Has Done Wonders in the Past with a Light Team Against a Heavier One.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Madison, Wis., Nov. 15.—The statement of Dr. Charles McCarthy, formerly assistant coach of the University of Wisconsin football team, who acted as one of the officials of the Michigan-Ohio game at Ann Arbor last Saturday and declared upon his return to Madison that things looked even between the badgers and Wolverines, adding that the victory would belong to the team that developed the most speed, has been one of the elements of increasing confidence in the cardinal camp. The betting odds have been forced down from the original offers of three to one on Michigan to three to two and some Michigan money is now demanding even prices. Wisconsin backers think they ought to get long odds on the record the Wolverines have made for the past four years.

Are Promising
At the badger training quarters the situation is promising. Coaches King and Holt have told the team that the proposition at Ann Arbor is a big one, but that Wisconsin has just as much reason to win as has Michigan. "We think you are the fellows to turn the trick," they have declared to the assembled players, but they have not said that the team is ready for the trick-throwing and careful work is being done every day. The chief effort is to get up speed. Speed, speed, speed. Every act in the long daily signal practices seems to tell the same story, that the element of speed is that to which the coaches look as the sine qua non of victory in the Michigan game. In this sense the practice is hard, but the gruelling scrimmages are lacking. Not more than two scrimmages, if that many, will be held. This has been definitely determined by Coaches King and Holt. One reason for this is the danger of injuries, for at this point in the season are not so necessary as perfect physical condition and "staying" qualities. And these qualities, in the belief of the authorities here, can be secured by long periods of signal work without the danger that comes from actual football in practice.

Vanderboom Injured

Heavy bandages are displayed on the left arm and shoulder of Captain Vanderboom this morning and it is established at Madison that the badger captain is severely injured. But the trainer refuses to say that "Van" will positively not play in the Michigan game Saturday. There were persistent rumors last night to the effect that the whole accident was a "bluff" deliberately designed to influence the betting odds, to give Michigan a spirit of over-confidence or perhaps, as was suggested in some quarters, to relieve Vanderboom with a good excuse. It was whispered that Clark had been picked by Coach King to play left halfback against Michigan, being a heavier and faster man, although not so heavy as Vanderboom. One thing is certain, that Vanderboom has not once this season come up to expectations. It is also said that since Coaches King and Holt saw Michigan's heavy team play Ohio state university last Saturday they came home and talked speed, more speed and then some more. The somewhat startling statement is attributed to Coach King, substantially as follows:

King's Statement
"The football teams of the west are greatly over-weighted. The desire has been to get weight, big beefy men. The ideal seems to be a team without a man under 200 pounds. It is impossible to get fat men to play good football. They are not much stronger than well-proportioned lighter men, and can be and are outplayed by the lighter and more active and shifty men. A heavy man is usually clumsy, slow and cannot take advantage of opportunities. He must plow straight ahead, is easily tripped and tackled and cannot change his direction, dodge or move himself. We want speed and we never wanted it more than to meet Michigan."

His Record
It has been the credit of Phil King to have twice defeated Minnesota when the gophers far out-weighted the badgers, but the badgers won by superior fleetness of foot and readiness to take advantage of the innumerable opportunities that every game offers for the exercise of "football sense." There are two very significant facts about the situation at Madison, when the preparation of the badgers for Michigan is practically completed. One is that the vast excess of weight on the wolverine team over the badgers is not heard as a great obstacle to Wisconsin success at Ann Arbor Saturday. The other is that the reported severe injury to the Wisconsin captain has not been followed by the gloom of last night, and in fact the people at the university take a view of the outlook that is remarkable when the statement of Dr. Kraenzlein is considered, to the effect that Vanderboom will probably, almost assuredly, be unable to enter the Michigan game. The prevailing odds in Madison are now two to one in favor of Michigan. There is plenty of Michigan money displayed at the wagering places, but not much Wisconsin cash to cover it.

Boone's Case
The disqualification of Dan Boone of Chicago is being commented upon here with reference to the effect it will have on Wisconsin's championship claims if the badgers are victorious over Michigan and the Wolverines defeat the maroons on Thanksgiving day in Chicago. It is pretty well agreed that the circumstance is not of significance, but if there is a chance of Wisconsin claiming the championship the early season defeat by Chicago by the drop-kick score of 4 to 0 will be minimized on the ground that the presence in that game of Boone, the professional or illegitimate player, should operate against the entire Chicago team as a kind of taint. However, as Boone was not much in the Wisconsin game, fair critics dismiss his case as of no account. The great point is for Wisconsin to defeat Michigan and then all cardinal loyalists will devoutly pray for a Michigan defeat over Chicago.

RETURN OF PERLEY LIGHT OPERA CO.

"The Girl and the Bandit" Again Delighted Theatre-Goers of Janesville Last Evening.

Last night the Perley Light Opera Co., with an array of comely young women who could sing and dance, new costumes, new faces in the cast, and new songs, returned to Janesville with "The Girl and the Bandit." Of all the musical organizations that have visited this city within the past two years, none, with the possible exception of Francis Wilson's company and The Postonians, have possessed such a wealth of fine voices and none have so successfully combined beauty and talent. It was a source of some surprise that an attraction of known merit, like this one, should not have been greeted with a capacity house. The audience, however, was a good-sized one and included many who had seen the performance last spring. The appearance of each and every old favorite on the moon-bathed Venetian piazza was the signal for a burst of applause. Even J. G. Sparks, who has supplied Janesville with the part of "Clancy" in "The Girl and the Bandit," shared in this and the reception plainly indicated that the "vote of confidence" had not been misplaced. The part has been strengthened and he was really better than the original.

Henry Cooke proved a worthy successor to Harry Carter in the part of "Angelo," the romantic lover of "Violetta," and Sidney Bracy was much better than Charles Meakins in the role of the "Hon. Edward Seymour." Frances Anne Ward did very well in the role of "Cherry," but hardly filled the place of demure and delightful little Alice Dorey of last season's organization. Harry Parent, beyond a few mirth-provoking poses and grotesque gestures, brought nothing new to the role of "Alessandro" so successfully played by Neil McNeil on the former occasion. Withal he was very good. Marian Wilder climaxed all efforts at caricature and made the role of "Anni Arabella," formerly taken by Elvia Croix Seabrook, delightfully strong and considerably more effective than it had been. The four dancing girls were all new-comers and the work, though very good indeed, did not arouse the enthusiasm manifested last time.

Everything Mabel Hite did or said, every absurd posture and facial expression, every awkward dance-step, surgle, or shriek, brought forth a responsive smile from the audience. Her comedy work is hard to analyze. Without her personality the role of "Quercetta" probably wouldn't amount to much. Viola Gillette, the golden-voiced, seemed better than ever before and George McFarland again received recalls for "The Toast" and other songs. Joseph Miron was nearly lost sight of in the first act but was heard from frequently in the second. The aria "Anxious" sung by the four couples in the second act provoked a storm of applause.

IN KEEPING WITH THE AGE.
The luxury of rapid transit between Chicago and New York is being enjoyed today as never before, and the 18-hour trains recently put in commission, are as much a work of art as a choice painting.

The Pennsylvania Central has just issued a little folder containing words of commendation from numerous passengers who have enjoyed the pleasure of a trip over the line on the Pennsylvania Special. But one sentiment is expressed, and that of the highest satisfaction.

People who travel but little do not appreciate the value of time, but men who make the trip between Chicago and New York every week, or every other day, as some of them do, can not say enough of the rapid service.
The train leaves Chicago at 2:45 in the afternoon, practically at the close of banking hours, and arrives in New York the next morning in time for business, so that a man can spend the day in New York and be back in Chicago the next morning before nine o'clock. It is a great train and a great service. If you would know all about it, and the splendid equipment of this modern railway company drop a postal to Samuel Moody, General Passenger Agent, at Pittsburgh.

PATENT MEDICINES.
Some of the eastern magazines who have exhausted "Rockefeller and the System" are now devoting their energies to patent medicines, evidently inspired by the Lawson ambition for notoriety.

Just what this class of publishers expect to accomplish in their crusade against proprietary medicines, does not appear on the surface, as nothing is offered in the way of a substitute, and the fact is generally recognized that the medicine chest is a part of the equipment in every well regulated home.

More than half the population of this country live in the rural districts and the mothers who preside in many of these homes are past masters in the art of healing.

The herbs and roots which contribute so largely to a course of treatment, are effective in many cases, and the croup and kindred diseases of children have no terrors, for mother and the old black bottles are usually equal to the occasion.

The magazines which are denouncing so fiercely the list of remedies now used so freely in these country homes, are evidently not aware of the fact that many of these remedies are the same simple herb and root combinations, put up in convenient and attractive form and sold exclusively on their merits.

While it is true that a large percentage of the cost of patent medicines is chargeable to the advertising account, which means a source of revenue to the press of the country, it is also true that no amount of publicity will hold up a fraudulent remedy.

Various states have attempted to pass laws which aim to restrict and eventually drive from the field proprietary medicines, but back of these efforts is always a selfish motive, and this is so apparent that efforts of this nature are usually defeated.

Boards of health and medical boards are usually responsible for this class of agitation and the motive which prompts action is seldom above suspicion.

The Fort Worth Telegram, in discussing the question, very truthfully says:

"It is an evident fact that the growth of the patent medicine business during the years past has been in direct response to popular demand, for there would be no patent medicines in the market today if the people did not demand them. It is also reasonable to suppose that these preparations possess merit, else there would be an immediate falling off in that demand. It is the development of this demand on the part of the people for the familiar remedies that has brought about the effort to force the proprietary medicine business into disrepute. The people who are the most adversely affected by the sale of patent medicines seem to be the leaders against the patent medicine business, and it is probable that the whole operation is predicted merely upon dollars and cents.

The use of patent medicines seems to be just as firmly fixed as the use of breakfast foods. There are millions of dollars invested in great plants for the manufacture of these preparations and thousands of people are employed in their manufacture. Back of these facts there must be some merit, for men do not invest their millions in experiments. It has first to be demonstrated that a proposition has merit before capital can be enlisted to push it, and this applies with just as much force to the patent medicine business as to any other.

There is no more reason why the druggist should not hand out a preparation of medicinal value than has been compounded in the laboratory of some big manufacturer as one dispensed by the druggist on the prescription of a physician. On the contrary, when the matter of price is taken into consideration, there seems to be every reason why the patent preparation should be available for all who seek it. There is just the difference of one dollar between many articles that are prepared by the druggists at the instance of a physician's prescription and that put up by the patent medicine men, and a dollar saved is always a dollar earned.
This fact, within itself, serves to explain the rise of the patent medicine business, and the indications are that it is a business that is here to stay.
As it serves a useful purpose there is no valid reason why it should not remain a permanency.

THE OTHER SIDE.

A vigorous reply to the utterances of President Roosevelt and Secretary Taft on the question of rate regulation is contained in an article by President David Wilcox of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad in the Yale Review for November, out today. Mr.
Taft's argument in his speech in Akron, Ohio, on October 21, in which the Secretary of War emphatically denied any scheme of rate-fixing by a federal commission, is thus met by Mr.
Wilcox:

"General rate fixing would manifestly be the Commission's principal future activity. In its annual report for 1893 (page 12) the Commission said: 'Every case before the Commission, however trivial it may appear, involves in its disposition the formulation of principles under the law which have an immediate bearing upon the business and the commerce, not only of the immediate locality, but often of the entire country.' In its annual report for 1904 the Commission said (page 29): 'It is probably nearer the truth to say that the cases now pending before the Commission directly or indirectly affect almost every locality and, therefore, nearly all the people of the United States.' In his testimony before the Senate Committee, Mr. Bacon, the chief advocate of political rate-fixing, said: 'There are three cases within the past year in which large sections of the country are interested—an immense population—one of which covers a large part of the Pacific coast; another covering the southeastern section of the country, with reference to lumber; and the third covering the whole country with reference to hay. The rates from the different districts are so inter-related with one another that they must be considered as a whole.' Mr. Prouty, the leading member of the Commission in rate-fixing activities, said before the Senate Committee that the Commission has not a case pending before it that does not involve a future rate, and that any single cases involve one thousand rates."

After pointing out that the mileage of the roads is 213,904, the number of employees 1,296,121, the operation expenses last year $1,338,896,253, and that there are annually filed more than 120,000 tariffs, representing probably at least a million rates, Mr.
Wilcox says: "The proposed legislation has placed these vast interests under the control of the Commission, and the attorney-general has ruled that the Commission would be independent of the courts so long as the rates which it fixed do not amount to demonstrable confiscation. Nothing could be more dangerous to the value of railroad property than the system now proposed of committing its future to the control of a political body, whose chief function would be to appease these certain hostile claims. Constant reductions, now here and now there, would easily destroy the property."

"The frequent threat of possible government ownership is, therefore, without force. That would be far preferable, because it would involve payment of the value of the property before its earning power was destroyed; but the effect of the proposed scheme would be to insidiously break down the earning power without paying for the property."

In dealing with the complaint that rates are exorbitant, Mr. Wilcox thus sums up the situation:

"In 1904 the rate per mile on freight was 75 cent per ton and on passengers was 2,000 cents each. The official publications of the government show that from the year 1887 until 1904, inclusive, prices generally increased seven per cent, while the rate per ton per mile on the railroads decreased twenty-four per cent. Notwithstanding this rise in prices generally, the freight rate in 1904 was only .00556 of a cent higher than the lowest point ever reached."

Rate fixing by a federal commission, Mr. Wilcox argues, "will establish rigid methods of transacting business which would arrest commercial progress. The traffic officials will be extremely reluctant to reduce rates, because their restoration would be practically impossible. A rate even fixed by the Commission would be incapable of change without a proceeding as a dilatory lawsuit; and as the Commission proceeded the scope of this rigid condition of rates would constantly extend. Every practical man must realize that business is carried on successfully by negotiation and agreement of the parties rather than by the judgment of any tribunal. 'Business by lawsuit' would be a lamentable failure. There is no successful branch of business in which the general future relations of those engaged therein are regulated by public officials, whether an administrative commission or a court of justice."

As to the remedy for adjusting grievances, Mr. Wilcox thus puts the case for the railroads: "The true remedy lies in the enforcement of existing statutes, which will prevent rebates and discriminations; and the resorting by the commission directly to the courts without dilatory preliminaries, so as to secure expeditious action by the only branch of the government which is empowered by the constitution to administer justice and determine rights of property.
This remedy is authorized by the Elkins law and is fully sanctioned by the Supreme Court; it will prevent unjust discrimination, and undue or unreasonable preferences. So far as concerns reasonableness of the rates, it is obvious that the present method, under which the Commission has power to pass upon existing rates, has been effectual, since no case of unreasonable rates has ever been judicially established."

in, while the principal natural products, icicles, gold ore, and chibblains are the same in both countries. Much more feasible and useful will be a

Persecution of the Jew.

the providence of God these people have been kept separate from other people. Though without a country they are kept together by their com-

Yet from the time of the destruction of Jerusalem A. D. 70, down to the present time they have been the objects of contempt and relentless persecution, except in America.

PAY DAY AT THE SUGAR FACTORY

GROWERS TODAY RECEIVED OVER $100,000.

RUSHING THE WORK ALONG

Handling Over a Thousand Tons of Beets a Day—New Orders.

Today is pay-day at the Rock County Sugar Company and over a hundred thousand dollars is being paid out to beet-growers. It is thought that this sum may be doubled or tripled at the next pay-day. This is the second large disbursement this year and the factory has been running night and day since it opened in October. Finished sugar is being sent out all over the United States and anywhere from three to nine cars are shipped daily. Nearly four hundred men are at work and from a thousand to two thousand tons of beets are handled daily.

Many Visitors
On Sunday last the factory was crowded with visitors early and late. Much interest is shown in the factory and its workings and the management have been kind enough to allow free access to all parts. A new rule has, however, gone into effect, that after six o'clock in the evening and on Sundays admission by card only will be required and these cards can be obtained at the office. Beet-growers, farmers and persons interested in the factory are cordially asked to apply for admission cards at the office. On work days no cards will be needed.

Very Complete
Compliments have come from all parts of the country on this year's run of sugar and Manager Osborn has received inquiries for sugar from St. Louis and other large shipping centers. Captain James Davidson spent Sunday in Janesville and is pleased with the workings of the factory. The Rock County Sugar company is company is complimented by persons who have seen other similar factories, for the manner in which they are handling the raw and finished products.

Some Rumors
Rumors which have emanated from Menominee, Michigan, to the effect that they were receiving or about to receive the majority of the beets contracted for by the Rock County Sugar company of this city, has been denied in the strongest of terms by Captain James Davidson. In a letter relative to this subject, Captain Davidson says:

The Letter
"Our factory has been running, making sugar constantly since the 1st of October, we being about the first factory in this part of the country to start operation. We have shipped out already about 4,000,000 pounds of sugar. We are having no trouble with labor, our men are satisfied, and everything about the plant is running nicely. We are making beautiful sugar, in fact, our brokers advise us that it could not be improved upon, and we are getting large inquiries for our sugar on account of its very fine quality."

Taking All the Beets
"We are going to take all the beets we have contracted for, and very promptly, in fact, more promptly, I think, than any other factory before ever handled them. We do not want to sell any, and are not going to sell any; we want all we can get. We are unloading cars so promptly that we have very few on hand for unloading, and the farmers delivering by wagon are not being delayed."

Very Systematic
"In fact, I do not know of a delivery of beets to any sugar factory that has been handled any better than ours this year. Everything is systematic, orderly, and growers seem to be well satisfied. We are doing everything we can to promote this industry in the state of Wisconsin. We are paying out hundreds of thousands of dollars to farmers, as well as large sums for other articles necessary in the running of a factory, such as coal, labor, lime-stone, cooperage, coke, etc., etc."

NO PAY FOR HIS SINGLE INQUEST

County Board Holds Up Lonesome Bill Presented by Social-Democratic Coroner.

Late yesterday afternoon the county board adopted the report of the special committee appointed to attend to the details of the inquest into the establishment of a municipal court at Beloit. This morning Editor Libbey of Evansville appeared before the body and took exception to the disallowing of $20 on his bill for printing the board proceedings. Members of the purchasing committee then stated that there had been a discrepancy of over $20 in the amount charged by Messrs. Ingersoll & Hanna of Beloit for printing the same proceedings in the Beloit paper and that charged by the Evansville paper. The pamphlets had also been printed on poorer quality paper than the year previous and they had been sent to the county clerk two weeks late, subjecting the printer to a fine of $5 a day forfeit under the contract, had the committee been disposed to impose it. By a vote of 37 to 2 the resolution to pay the $19.30 asked for was turned down. County Poor Supt. Seegmiller of Beloit asked for instructions with regard to the payment of a bill for $120 for physicians' services in the case of a Beloit man who fell out of a window and broke his leg in Jefferson county.

This afternoon the board took up a number of bills and arguments were offered regarding the approving of bills for five inquests in the county. It appears that according to the law passed by the last session of the legislature inquests may only be held at the direction of or consent of the district attorney and then only when there is evidence of murder or manslaughter. In the case of the inquest over the bodies of the Burnett women, found dead in a cellar at night in Orfordville, Justice Rostad's bill was allowed because, though he did not communicate with the district attorney, he tried to do so, and the case was very urgent, there being strong suspicions of foul play. Coroner Geo. H. Parker's bill for the inquest over the body of the Grady boy who was drowned in Beloit; Justice C. W. Lowry's bill for the inquest on the body of Julia Jackson found dead in her bed in Evansville, together with the bills of officers and physician; Justice E. F. Baldridge's bill for the inquest on the body of Mrs. Roy Gooch; and the bill of Justice Menzies of Beloit for the inquest on the body of Jacob Augustowsky, were all held over until the January meeting. None of the last mentioned had communicated with the district attorney or tried to do so as far as could be learned and approval of an inquest would have been withheld, being deemed unnecessary, in all four instances.

Supervisor Simon Smith thought that George Parker, the social democratic coroner, after defeating the combined forces of the republican and democratic parties in the election, was entitled to his fees for the only inquest he had been able to hold since his elevation to the office and was disposed to believe that the $3 should not be withheld.

W. T. SHERER DENIES INTERESTING RUMOR

To the Effect That He is Planning to Adopt a Relative and Heiress Living in Spain.

When asked for particulars regarding what appeared to be a well-authenticated report to the effect that he was making preparations to adopt a young girl relative at present in Valencia, Spain, and the heiress of a considerable fortune, W. T. Sherer this morning denied any such intentions and stated that his only relatives abroad resided in Germany and that the rumor was probably founded on the plans which he and his wife entertained of visiting that section of Europe some time after Christmas. Through a friend named Mr. Bowdoin, a nephew of J. Pierpont Morgan, residing in New York, Mr. Sherer said that he had gotten into correspondence with a Spanish nobleman residing in Valencia regarding his forthcoming trip and several letters had been exchanged.

DID HOCH HAVE A GERMAN FAMILY?

JANESVILLE WOMAN RECEIVED A LETTER FROM NIECE THERE.

ASKS ABOUT "BLUEBEARD"

The Letter Says He Left a Wife and Ten Children in Germany Who Want the News.

In a letter recently received by a Janesville lady from a niece in Rixdorf, Germany, information is asked as to the outcome of the trial of that "Bluebeard Hoch."

The letter goes on to state that the writer, Mrs. Julius Horn, knows intimately one of the wives of the bigamist and convicted murderer who lives in Rixdorf and also knew another wife who is now dead.

Displays Interest

Mrs. Horn writes her Janesville relative that the Mrs. Hoch she knows has ten children and that she and her family are very anxious to find what is to be done to the husband and father. "Bluebeard Hoch" is the way he is designated in the letter and a request is made that late papers with the particulars of the trial and what is happening to Hoch be sent to her, so she could give them to "poor Mrs. Hoch." Nothing is said as to the age of the children and nothing more than they are ten in number is vouchsafed by the writer.

Had the News

Evidently at Rixdorf Mrs. Hoch had heard of Hoch's arrest and conviction and was anxious to learn if he was to hang or not. Mrs. Horn had evidently known another wife of the "Bluebeard," as she refers to her as being dead now. Rixdorf is located near Berlin, Germany, being but a few miles distant. Hoch's case is still pending before the Illinois state supreme court.

DIET AND DRUNKARDS.

I have not said a great deal upon the subject of alcoholic liquors in the Home Health club lectures, but instead have constantly taught temperance in all things. I have tried to go to the root of the evil. For many of you know that the beloved temperance worker, Frances E. Willard, used frequently to say that "the kitchen is often the vestibule of the saloon," and I think that a little reflection will cause you to agree with her. The delicate nerves of a growing boy's stomach can be so irritated by highly-spiced and greasy foods, doughy bread, coffee, tea, etc., that fermentation takes place before the food can possibly digest and it is, as Dr. Paulson says, not to be wondered at that he craves the paralyzing influence of alcohol and the nerve-deadening effects of the cigarette.

"Dr. Brunton, the eminent English physician, tells of a drunkard who complained because the temperance people were forever telling him about his drinking, but none of them told him how to get rid of the thirst that compelled him to drink. What would we think of a farmer who spent his time turning the tops of his troublesome weeds instead of pulling them up by the roots?"

"There is a cause for a drunkard's thirst, just as there is a cause for the fever patient's temperature. Divine Writ declares: 'The curse causeless shall not come.' If our modern dinner tables could be cleared of those things that create a craving for liquor there would be more vacant places at the bar; for the saloon, instead of being the first step in the drunkard's career, is frequently the devil's hospital, sought out by those who already have had abnormal tastes created within them by a fond mother's cooking."

"The mother who prepares such food for her boy is unconsciously the best friend of not only the cigarette dealer, but also of the saloon keeper, for she is developing business for both of them. How useless for her to implore providence to deliver her boy from the curse of the cigarette and the liquor traffic while she is daily placing before him food that must physiologically create a demand for their effects, just as the eating of a large quantity of salt would develop in him a strong and almost irresistible desire to patronize the water-bucket. The Divine declaration: 'Whosoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap,' is as unerring in its operations as is the law of gravitation."

Dr. Paulson says further: "Our experience in dealing with multitudes of drunkards in our Chicago life boat work has thoroughly convinced us that the partaking of an extensive variety of vile and indigestible foods, saturated with substances that blister, burn and sting as they are swallowed, that are added for the purpose of giving the palate a twist, also twists the nerves, and even the temper and character, and almost drags the poor, struggling victim of the drink habit into the saloon as he passes its door."

"Scientific cookery should be regarded as an important part of the education of our young people. Indeed, some one has said that cookery should rank highest among the high arts. Yet, the enterprising business man who demands an accurate stenographer, a well-informed lawyer, and a discreet manager, is fully satisfied that the woman in his kitchen is a competent cook if she can flavor and put together half a dozen food ingredients so that they will satisfy his taste, even though she may have no intelligent conception as to whether they will build up or destroy the brain and other tissues."

"The idea that alcohol is a food is a thinly-coated scientific sophistry which has furnished a desirable excuse for thousands of moderate drinkers. It is true that a small quantity of alcohol will burn or oxidize in the body, but it ruins the body while it is burning, just as a quantity of gunpowder could burn in a stove, but it would blast it to pieces while it was burning."

"Prof. Kraepelin, of Heidelberg, Germany, one of the world's greatest authorities on experimental psychology, has recently made 2,000 experiments with instruments of precision in which he has scientifically demonstrated that as small an amount as one-third of an ounce of alcohol will appreciably depress sight, hearing, feeling and the various mental operations."

Let the mother study the Home Health club methods of diet, the proper combinations of food, and how to prepare it and the result will not be favorable to the saloon and tobacco trade.

CLUB NOTES.

If Mrs. L. E. of Pennsylvania, and J. T. E., of Manitoba, Canada, will write again giving name and address in full, I will cheerfully answer their letters.

Goodpasture.—Dr. David H. Reeder, Lafayette, Ind. Dear Sir: I have been a constant reader of your weekly lectures and they have convinced me that your way is the best way to live to have good health. I have been much stronger since I have been living that way. I have always been troubled with indigestion and constipation until I took your advice; since then I have not been troubled with either, but still am far from being a strong woman. Would be so glad for your advice in regard to a few things. I am too thin, weighing only 102 pounds; height, five feet three inches; age, 30 years. If you will kindly tell me what to eat to gain flesh I will gladly follow your directions. I do not care for cabbage, beets, parsnips. Are they a necessity? I am very fond of beefsteak, fried. Is that a healthful way to eat it? I am also fond of ice cream. Is there any skin food I could use on my face to fill out my cheeks? Any advice will be thankfully received. Your friend, Mrs. L. E.

Words of commendation and appreciation are always welcome and encouraging. I thank you. How to get fat? That is easy, but there are few who will comply with the easy rules.

These easy rules are: Work less, sleep more, worry less, eat more, drink less while eating, chew more. Eat for dessert, daily after dinner, one ounce of almond nut meats. If the skins are removed by scalding and the meats are then slightly roasted, buttered and salted, or dried and dipped in chocolate, the result will be best. Drink no tea or coffee, but drink an abundance of water between meals. The emphatic points are: No worry, plenty of sleep. Observe all of these rules and you will grow as plump and rosy as you desire.

Any good wholesome food that agrees with you and furnishes gustatory enjoyment will be good food for you. The vegetables you mention are not necessary. There are many ways of preparing steak which make it more palatable and easily digestible than frying. Broiling is the simplest way. I would not advise you to use the so-called skin foods. Nature's methods are better.

Oklahoma.—Dr. David H. Reeder, Lafayette, Ind. Dear Sir: My husband has smoked cigars a great many years and has grown nervous. I am very anxious for him to leave it off and he would do so, but he knows what a struggle it would be, and how many temptations would be thrown in his way, that I am really afraid that if he should try to give it up entirely he would not succeed. He is just up from an attack of catarrhal fever and is not smoking, but may be to-morrow, yet I am hopeful.

Now what would you suggest? Is there a remedy or is there anything I could put in his food that would destroy the longing for tobacco? Kindly give me your advice for which I will be thankful. Yours truly, Mrs. I. W.

While I am very much opposed to the use of tobacco in any form, yet I consider it unwise for a person, especially one in the debilitated condition in which your husband now is, to break off the use of it suddenly. It is a poison and the system has become habituated to it, and would suffer if deprived. It can be discontinued gradually, however, if there are certain remedies led to the system and nerves in order to counteract the effects. The best of these are in the tissue elements, or cell salts. These are harmless and safe home remedies, contain no opiates, nor anything that would interfere with digestion, and in fact are simply the foods demanded by nature in order to maintain the integrity of the system.

Iowa.—Dr. David H. Reeder, Lafayette, Ind. Dear Sir: I am troubled with getting up in my sleep and walking about. I have been troubled in this way ever since I was a child and seem otherwise to be in a healthy condition. I am 25 years of age. Any remedy you would advise for me to use would be greatly appreciated. Respectfully yours, P. J.

As a rule, sleep-walking, or any disturbance of the sleep, is usually due to indigestion, usually arising from eating heavy food at the evening meal. I would suggest that you eat no meat or other muscle-making food after three o'clock p. m., but that your supper be very light, and consist of fruits, and cereals and that you eat it not later than six o'clock. Also that just before retiring you place into a receptacle for heating, one-half teacupful of milk, and one-half teacupful of water. Let this be heated just to the boiling point, but not boiled; sip it slowly with a teaspoon. A pinch of salt can be added if desired to make it a little more palatable. You will find this very soothing to the nerves and I think you will sleep well without further trouble.

All readers of this publication are at liberty to write for information pertaining to the subject of health. All communications should be addressed to the Home Health club or Dr. David H. Reeder, and should contain name and address in full with at least four cents in postage.

RATE REGULATION MUST BE SQUARE

Mr. Roosevelt Expounds His Views to Committee of Trainmen.

JUSTICE MUST BE KEYNOTE

Fair Treatment for All Concerned Is Essential Precedent to Endeavor to Fix Tariffs for Railroads of the Country.

Washington, Nov. 15.—President Roosevelt, in replying to a protest of railway trainmen against his plan of rate regulation, strongly reiterated his views in favor of government supervision. His policy of a square deal for all and special favors to none was never more clearly enunciated.

"I am convinced that there must be an increased regulatory and supervisory power exercised by the government over the railways," he said. "Indeed, I would like it exercised to a much greater extent than I have any idea of pressing at the moment. For instance, I would greatly like to have it exercised in the matter of overcapitalization. I am convinced that the wage fund would be larger if there was no fictitious capital upon which dividends had to be paid."

In his reply to the committee, which was composed of representatives of the engineers, conductors, firemen and other organizations, the president said:

"The interests of the wage worker and the interests of the tiller of the soil must be peculiarly close to all American public men; among other reasons, for the reason that if they prosper, all other classes will prosper likewise as a matter of course. As I said the other day to the representative of organized labor at Atlanta, I shall do everything in my power for the laboring men except to do anything wrong."

Unions Develop Workers.

"Your associations deserve peculiar regard because you have developed to a marked degree the qualities that all bodies of wage workers should develop. The intelligence, the regard for the future, the self-respect mingled with the respect for others, the power of self-restraint, which are absolutely essential to any body of men which is to move upward and onward."

"With most of the general statements that you make I agree, but I am not sure that I agree with your application of them. There has been comparatively little complaint to me of the railroad rates being as a whole too high. The most serious complaints that have been made to me have been of improper discrimination in railroad rates. For instance, in two recent cases affecting great corporations the complaints that have been made to me have been that they are too low as regards certain big shippers; the complaint in both cases is about the differential, the difference of treatment of two sets of users of the railways, the difference in favor of one set of shippers as against another set of shippers. Whether this is just or not I am not prepared to say."

Sympathizes with Trainmen.

"I deeply appreciate and sympathize with the feeling you express as to the community of interest between the man who actually does the handling of the trains, at the brakes, in the engine cab, as a fireman, as a conductor, and the man who has to do as a capitalist or as the higher employee of the capitalist, with the general management of the road. I feel that one of the lessons that cannot be over-ruled is the lesson of identity of interests among our people as a whole. I do not have to tell a body like this something that I do have to tell some other bodies, and that is if you have not got at the head of a railroad a man who can make a success of it, the wage workers on that railroad cannot prosper. You must have at the head the type of ability which can do well."

"I have said again and again that I would not tolerate for one moment any injustice to a railroad any more than I would tolerate any injustice by a railroad. I have said again and again that I would remove a public official who improperly yielded to any public clamor against a railroad, no matter how popular that clamor might be, just as quickly as I would remove a public official who rendered an improper service to the railroad at the expense of the public.

Not Hostility to Wealth.

"I need hardly say that this does not mean hostility to wealth. If you gentlemen here, in whom I believe so strongly, were all a unit in demanding that some improper action should be taken against certain men of wealth, then, no matter whether I did or did not like those same men of wealth, I would defend them against you, no matter how much I cared for you; and in so doing I would really be acting in your own interest."

"I would be false to your interest if I failed to do justice to the capitalist as much as to the wageworker. But I shall act against the abuses of wealth just as against all other abuses. The outcry against rate regulation is of much the same character as that I encountered when I was engaged in putting through that car coupling business; or in endeavoring to secure certain legislation in which you all have been interested, such as the employers' liability law."

Would Be Fair to All.

"Most certainly I will join with you in resisting to the utmost any movement to hurt or damage any railroads which act decently, for I would hold that such damage was not merely to the capitalist, not merely to the wage-worker engaged on the railroads, but to all the country. My aim is to secure the just and equal treatment of the public by those (I trust and believe a limited number) who do not want to give it."

"All I want in any rate legislation is to give the government an efficient supervisory power which shall be exercised as scrupulously to prevent injustice to the railroads as to prevent their doing injustice to the public. Our endeavor is to see that those big railroad men and big shippers who are not responsive to the demands of justice and are required to do what their fellows who are responsive to the demands of justice would be glad to do of their own accord."

WILL NOT INVADÉ COAL FIELD

Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Will Not Build New Line.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Nov. 15.—Eugene Zimmerman said that the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton will not build into the coal-fields of the Elkhorn and Round Gap districts. It is reported that a new company will be formed to make this extension. Mr. Zimmerman said that he is interested largely in companies owning 550,000 acres of coal lands, and the experts figure that with proper transportation facilities 10,000,000 of tons a year can be mined. Asked as to whether the Erie was back of the development of the coal fields, Mr. Zimmerman said that he did not think so. Mr. Zimmerman has not decided whether or not he will accept the presidency of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton railway company.

TALK OF COAL CONSOLIDATION

Rumor Is Heard of New Plans for Tennessee Concern.

New York, Nov. 15.—The reports that negotiations looking toward a consolidation of the Tennessee Coal and Iron company and the Republic Iron and Steel company are under way have no foundation in fact. C. S. Guchrie, chairman of the board of directors of the Republic, is on a hunting excursion, but another interest of the company said the rumors were not warranted by facts. The Southern iron companies, he said, may agree to merge some day, but indications were that such a deal would not be brought about in the near future.

TWISTS NECK IN NIGHTMARE

Pawtucket, R. I., Girl Awakes From Dream With Vertebrae Out of Joint.

Pawtucket, R. I., Nov. 15.—Awakened from a nightmare in which she dreamed she was struggling with a monstrous creature, Miss Frances Robinson discovered her head was turned, immovably, over her right shoulder. Dr. Joseph E. Duxbury found that, in the struggle of her dream, the young woman had twisted her head so suddenly and violently she had dislocated the vertebrae. The doctor was required to use considerable force before the patient's neck, with a "click" of the bone, slipped into its normal place.

Social Tragedy

Women Who Brave Death for Social Honors.

In the midst of one of the most brilliant social functions of the season, a noted society woman started suddenly from her chair with a scream of agony and fell insensible to the floor.

A few hours later the distinguished physician told her anxious husband that she was suffering from an acute case of nervous prostration brought on by female trouble, and hinted at an operation. Fortunately a friend advised her to try

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The result was that she escaped the surgeon's knife and to-day is a well woman.

The derangement of the delicate female organism sets every nerve in the body quivering with pain. Headaches, backaches, torturing bearing down pains and dragging sensations make women nervous and hysterical.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was troubled for eight years with irregularities which broke down my system and brought on extreme nervousness and hysteria. I could neither enjoy my meals nor sleep nights, became easily irritated and nervous and very despondent. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound proved to be the only medicine which helped me. After taking the third bottle, my general health began to improve. At the end of the fifth month I was well and could attend to my household and social duties and enjoy life.

Mrs. CURRY, whose portrait appears on the right, is the leader of the Ladies' Symphony Orchestra. The following letter is from Miss Goode, President of the Bryn Mawr Lawn Tennis Club of Chicago:

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I tried many different remedies to try to build up my system, which had become run down from loss of proper rest and unseasonable hours, but nothing seemed to help me. Mother is a great advocate of Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles, having used it herself some years ago with great success. So I began to take it, and in less than a month I was able to be out of bed and out of doors, and in three months I was entirely well. Really I have never felt so strong and well as I have since.

Mrs. Pinkham's advice is free to all. Her address is Lynn, Mass.

WOULD RAISE FUND FOR RUSSIAN JEWS

Gazette Offers to Handle All Contributions That May Be Handed In.

At the request of several persons interested in the raising of a fund to alleviate the sufferings of the Russian Jews, the Gazette offers to handle all subscriptions sent into the office for this purpose and see that the money so raised is sent to proper authorities for distribution. At the time of the Kishineff massacre some fifty-odd dollars was raised by popular subscription and sent to the Kishineff fund for distribution. In Madison last Sunday a mass-meeting of some hundred persons of Jewish extraction was held and it was decided to make a personal appeal for funds in that city. In Milwaukee several committees are at work raising money for the fund and in other places in the state similar committees are adding their mite to the general treasury. In order that all who may wish to contribute can have an opportunity the Gazette offers to receive contributions and take charge of their distribution. Persons desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity can leave their money in the business office of the Gazette and when a sufficient sum is raised it will be sent to the headquarters of the Jewish League in the United States or to Milwaukee to be classed with the Wisconsin contributions.

MURDER FOUR HUNDRED IN A TARTAR VILLAGE
Armenians Descend on Defenseless People in Gorge and Plunder and Burn Buildings.

Tiflis, Nov. 15.—Stirred by the reported plans of Turks and Tartars to join in waging a war of extermination against the Christians, 700 Armenians from a number of villages in the governments of Erivan are reported to have attacked the Tartar village of Gorg and killed 400 of the villagers.

The Armenians are said to have descended on Gorg in great numbers. The Tartars, taken by surprise, were little prepared to give fight and fell easy victims to the attacking party. No mercy was shown and for a time the streets of Gorg ran with the blood of its inhabitants. After murdering the people the Armenians plundered the village and then set fire to the houses and stores.

For several weeks there have been rumors of an intended uprising against the Armenians and Christians, and it is believed that Archimandrite Karapet, the head of the Erivan church, despairing of preventing the massacre of his own people, decided to take the initiative and ordered the attack on Gorg. It is feared that this will be followed by attacks on other Tartar towns and that a holy war of vast dimensions will ensue.
